SOVEREIGNTY OF EGYPT DURING THE WAR WAS RESPECTED

LITERALLY NO SOLDIERS FROM THAT COUNTRY JOINED THE BRITISH FORCES.

Washington, Sept. 9.—Reginald Lindsay, chargé d'affaires of the British embassy, today made public a letter to Grover C. Hall, associate editor of the Montgomery Advertiser, Montgomery, Ala., in reply to an inquiry by Mr. Hall as to "how many Egyptian soldiers fought under the British flag during the war and what was the number of casualties suffered by them?"

The inquiry, it is said, was prompted by the brief recently presented by Joseph W. Folk, former governor of Missouri, to the foreign relations committee of the United States senate, in which Mr. Folk called attention to the fact that 1,000,000 Egyptian soldiers fought on the side of the Allies.

"The British government," wrote Mr. Lindsay, who was in Egypt all through the war, "has carefully avoided destroying Egyptian sources of information. Egyptian soldiers always served under the Egyptian, and not under the British flag. The United Kingdom did not in Egypt employ British military establishments in the country, elsewhere the distinctive Egyptian flag is displayed. To an even greater extent, the British Egyptian soldiers joined the British colors."

"Of course, this is only a partial statement." In February, 1915, when the Turkish army attacked Egypt, a battery of Egyptian artillery joined the British force defending the line of the Suez Canal. The enemy attacked developed just opposite this battery, the members of which man aged their guns in an able manner and assisted in the repulse of the enemy. I believe they lost two killed and a half dozen wounded."

"No other Egyptian armed force were in action during the recent war, but later on three or four Egyptian battalions guarded lines of communication in Sinai while Gen. Allenby was conducting his campaign in Syria, and an Egyptian detachment was at one time in the Heljaz. Neither of these forces were under fire."

ENROLLED IN CORPS.
"In addition to this, large numbers of Egyptian were enrolled in labor and transport corps auxiliary to the British forces. These men were enlisted for short terms of three to six months, and did the manual and unskilled labor for Gen. Allenby's forces as such their service was of high value, and they released for the fighting line men who otherwise would have been engaged in the rear."

"How many of these men passed through the labor corps cannot be stated, but the total enlistments at one moment amounted to between 30,000 and 50,000. Of the labor corps men, some came under fire while digging trenches and transporting stores and ammunition near the front, and casualties were suffered. These men gave the figures authoritatively, but I believe there were altogether about 1,500 killed and wounded during the four years of the war."

THRILLING EXPERIENCE OF A POLICE INSPECTOR.

Inspector Phillips, of the R.N.W.M.P. Herschell Island detachment arrived in Regina recently after an absence of two years, and has left on leave for a short holiday at his home in Belleville, Ontario.

The inspector is one of three men who went through an experience last summer, from which state police authorities, only one man in a thousand comes out alive. This was when the boat he was piloting was wrecked in the ice floes off Herschell Island. On this particular occasion Inspector Phillips, accompanied by Sergeant Doak and Constable Cornelius, were returning from a patrol. The sea became rough and the ice floes pounded their boat, sending it to the bottom. The three officers jumped to the ice and then began an eight mile trip, during which they suffered untold hardships, finally reaching the depot in an exhausted condition and for weeks lay between life and death. Their rugged constitutions stood them well and all three recovered. During their journey of eight miles over the ice they had to swim 24 open leads in the ice, and that with their clothes on in icy cold water. The first report of this experience was made to Commissioner Perry, C.M.G., by Inspector Phillips, who stated that Sergeant Doak and Constable Cornelius were none the worse for their swim in the Arctic sea.

MACHINERY FOR REDUCTION OF PRICES GETTING IN MOTION

Ottawa, September 2.—Judge Robson, chairman of the board of commerce, has wired all of the provincial attorney-generals asking that provincial police be detailed immediately for an examination of conditions in each locality respecting food conditions, the quantities on hand, and the prevailing prices, and to report to the board.

It is further asked that the provinces engage counsel to prepare cases to be submitted to the board in any situation where there is a suspicion of unwarrantably charging inordinate prices. The board will deal with these cases as reported, as it cannot be all over the country at once. It will appoint competent sub-commissioners to investigate specific commodities and will also rely upon their reports. Instructions have been given that all these orders be public and open to the press, as will be the proceedings of the board itself. The first sitting of the board will be held in Montreal.

NOW AND FIFTY-NINE YEARS AGO.

Toronto Mail and Empire: There have been great changes in the empire in the fifty-nine years since Toronto had its first visit from a Prince of Wales. At that time there were no Dominions. Now the Dominions are grown up states, the powers rather than the dependencies of the Mother Country, and props of the empire instead of a drain upon it. When the prince, afterwards Edward VII, was here in 1860, Canada was but a fraction of what Canada is today, and from the Empire of that day was hidden much of the glorious future that has since been realized. The great principles of the Empire's political development—the principles of self-government and federal constitutions—had not yet begun to work a right. It was still a question whether Canada was worth keeping. Even after confederation John Brinsford told Sir Charles Tupper that he could not help thinking it would be a great thing to see one government rule from the equator to the north pole. In 1876 the London Times advocated the severance of Canada from Britain because of the cost of the connection. That was the year when the Confederation. The Post Laureate of the day, Alfred, afterwards Lord Tennyson, showed a true Empire instinct. In his Epilogue to the Idylls of the King he reproved the Times for its isolation of thought to "That true North whereof we lately heard."

A strain to shame us "keep you to yourselves; So loyal is too costly! friends—your love is but a burthen; loose the bond." In a letter to Tennyson Lord Dufferin, then governor general of Canada, thanked the poet "for the spirit of his Epilogue, in which you have granted those who are seeking to solve the Empire, and to alienate and disgust the inhabitants of this great island, and to prosper our colony." If Canada, however, is spoken of as "that true North" forty seven years ago, how much more so now. The present Prince of Wales, who served at the front in the great war, knows how true Canada was to Britain and the Empire in that struggle. In Our Lady of the Snows, King makes Canada say:

"I have proven faith in the Heritage By more than the word of mouth."

The preference she gave to Britain in 1917, which he refers to, was a small thing by comparison with the proof Canada gave of her loyalty to British connection in her four years' fighting in the recent war.

MONUMENT IN A SCHOOL YARD.

Looking out over grain fields and meadow in one of the best agricultural districts in Huron county, Ontario, is a figure of a young infantryman, done in fine granite. The figure surmounts a base, also of stone, and altogether it is a highly creditable work. Inscribed on the base of the monument are the names of the young farmers of the district, who gave their lives in the nation's defense in the great war, and also those who enlisted, and those who were wounded. What makes the monument the more striking is the fact that it stands in the corner of a school yard. The three young men whose lives were sacrificed in the war were once scholars in the little white brick schoolhouse. They were the sons of farmers in the neighborhood. They played and studied and worked by turns. Their schoolmates of many of them, are still there. The homes from which they went, and in which there is a vacant chair, are representative homes—London Free Press.

VILLA'S FORCES SUFFER A SEVERE DEFEAT.

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 4.—Official reports from Gen. Manuel Diezguerra, received at Juarez headquarters, late today, tell of the severe defeat of Villa forces at the hands of federal forces commanded by Gen. Gastor. The battle lasted for nearly an hour, when the rebels fled, leaving 100 dead, wounded and prisoners on the field. The federalists lost four officers and five men killed and 17 wounded.

KING WELCOMES UNIONISTS TO LIBERAL PARTY

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, leader of the Liberal party, today made some comments on the fact that Hon. W. S. Fielding has taken a seat in the front row of the opposition benches on the floor of the house of commons.

"Mr. Fielding's seat at the same desk with Hon. D. D. Mackenzie," said Mr. King, "should be an all-sufficient answer as to the attitude of the Liberal opposition toward the conscription liberals. It is another evidence that Liberal Unionists, far from being excluded from the Liberal party, are welcome, and will be welcomed in the most cordial way. The Liberal party today, whatever may have been its differences, desires the co-operation of all those who believe in its policies and its principles, our look is toward the future, not the past."

WEATHER.

If I could run the weather for seasons two or three, a metal made of leather you'd doubtless hand to me. The climate now presented strikes us as being bad; most men are discontented and some of us are mad. When sunshine's badly needed, the rain falls every day; the fields by hard work kneaded, drowned and washed away. And when we need some water to save our oats and rye, the sun gets hot and hotter, and crops begin to fry. I'd get my friends to get and send the water dripping when floods are on the plain. He comba his hand down whether and runs things hit or miss; if I could run the weather I'd all your lives with bliss.—Walt Mason.

OPPOSITION MAY ASK FOR DELAY IN RATIFICATION

REQUEST ON PEACE TREATY SEEMS PROBABLE

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—From the opinions expressed after the Liberal caucus Wednesday afternoon, it is likely that there will be a request from the opposition for more information on the peace treaty, and it may be that the Liberals will also ask for delay.

Members seen after the caucus pointed to the fact that while there apparently was used of urgent action in Britain, as well as in Canada on the peace treaty ratification, the discussion on the treaty in the British house had been adjourned for 15 days, in order that the members of the commons might become familiar with all the clauses.

The official copies of the treaty were only handed to the members here Tuesday, and apparently from conversations, some of them at least, they yet wanted the string which bound the bundle of documents as it was handed to them.

In the Liberal camp there appears to be uncertainty as to the reception by certain sections of the commons of the fact that Canada, on becoming a full-fledged member of the league of nations, agrees when the occasion arises, it should ever be necessary, to place its army in the field as against any member of the league who is being wronged. One Quebec member of the commons last night said that this was against Canadian principles, as many people understood them, and he felt there should be plenty of time before any agreement to such a drastic step was given.

The fact that the French members have not been able to secure copies of the treaty in French has also caused much comment among them and it is likely a protest on these grounds may be registered when the discussion is resumed.

In many quarters last night it was felt that an adjournment of the discussion for a few days, with a return to the debate on the speech in reply to the address from the commons was likely to be requested when the house meets this afternoon.

ON GROWING OLD.

Be with me, Beauty, for the fire is dying.
My dog and I are old, too-old for flying.
Man, whose young passion sets the spindrift flying,
Is soon too lame to march, too cold for loving.

I take the book and gather to the fire Turning old yellow leaves. Minute for minute

The clock ticks to my heart; a withered wire Moves a thin ghost of music in the spinet.

I cannot sail your seas, I cannot wander Your mountains, nor your downslands nor your valleys.

Ever again, nor share the battle younger Where your young knight the broken squadron rallies;

Only stay quiet, while my mind re-members The beauty of fire from the beauty of embers.

Beauty, have pity, for the young have power. The rich their wealth, the beautiful their grace, Summer of man its fruit-time and its flower.

Spring-time of man all April in a face. Only, as in the jostling Strand, Where the mob thrusts, or loiters or loathes

The beggar with the saucers in his hand Asks only a penny from the passing crowd.

So, from this glittering world with all its fashion, Its fire and play of men, its stir, its march,

Let me have wisdom, Beauty, wisdom and passion, Bread to the soul, rain where the summers passers

Give me but these, and though the darkness close, Even the night will blossom as the rose.

—John Masfield in The Atlantic Monthly.

MACKENZIE WILL REMAIN LEADER OF OPPOSITION

Ottawa, September 2.—Hon. W. S. Fielding is to take a front seat on the opposition benches at a meeting of the advisory Liberal committee. This morning it was decided that D. I. Macdonald should continue as the temporary leader of the party until Hon. Mackenzie King finds his way into the house.

The veteran member agreed to act and will sit in the former seat of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, which was vacant last session, and Mr. Fielding will be his desk mate.

HON. A. L. SIFFON MADE MINISTER OF PUBLIC WORKS

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—Hon. A. L. Sifton who, since entering the government in 1917, has been minister of customs, was sworn in today as minister of public works. He succeeds Hon. P. B. Carvell, recently appointed to the chairmanship of the board of railways and canals.

No successor has been appointed to Mr. Sifton in the department of customs. It is understood that for the present Hon. J. D. Reid will be acting minister.

SUGGESTS THAT PRINCE BE GOVERNOR GENERAL

Vancouver, Sept. 4.—The Vancouver World makes the suggestion that the visit of the Prince of Wales to Canada, that in view of ceremonial visits overseas by the heir to the throne, in future it should be the established custom for him to spend a year as governor-general in each of the dominions.

In that way, it is contended, the future king of the British commonwealth would obtain an actual knowledge of the governmental problems of the empire impossible to acquire otherwise.

"SHE withstood everything in the field and above all was, and still is, the last and only car to survive until the cessation of hostilities."—Extract from letter received by Ford Motor Company from a British Soldier, in Africa.

Over shell-torn roads, through water soaked fields, second only to the tanks in its power to climb debris and crater holes, the Ford car made a world famous record in the fighting area of the great war. In pressed despatches, in field reports, in letters, in rhyme and prose the praises of the Ford were sounded.

In France 700 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
In Italy 850 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
In Egypt 900 cars out of 1,000 were Fords
In Mesopotamia 999 cars out of 1,000 were Fords

AS FOCH SAW IT

(Manchester Guardian, July 21.)

Marshal Foch was received at Buckingham Palace yesterday by the King, who conferred upon him the rank of Field Marshal of the British Army.

At the Guildhall later the Marshal received the honorary freedom of the City of London and was presented with a Sword of Honor.

In his reply, addressing the Lord Mayor and a distinguished company, which included Sir Douglas Haig, Sir Henry Wilson, Sir Ian Hamilton, Admiral Wemyss and Mr. Churchill, Mr. Lloyd George and other members of the government, the Marshal closed as follows:

"In the spring of 1918 the British armies were greatly exhausted by the attacks in March on the Somme, in April on the Lys, at Baillet, at Mont Kemmel, and at Ypres. Nevertheless, in July they were restored to their perfect moral and physical condition. They had been reinforced by nearly 200,000 men and by a considerable amount of material in artillery, ammunition and tanks.

"As a collaborator I had Sir Douglas Haig, a chief who spared more than any other the lives of his men, a chief of the highest experience and skill and of the utmost tenacity and loyalty to his friends. What interviews we had during those six months of a hard campaign—how often from the north and I from the centre or the right of the vast front. In spite of the great distances and the fatigue we sought each other like two brothers. Each of the family, in order to live in close intimacy and to ensure by an absolute community of ideas the more and more rapid march of our armies."

"We had to decide upon and maintain the direction of events and to force them to the point. On November 9 I sent Sir Douglas Haig the following telegram, certain that I should be loyally followed by him and his armies:

"The disorganized enemy, owing to our repeated attacks, is giving way along the whole front. It is essential to maintain and accelerate our operations. I call upon your energy and the initiative of the Commanders-in-Chief and their armies in order to render decisive the results obtained."

"My collaborators, too, are called upon. I call upon you, Birdwood, Plumer, Lawrence, and many others. From their magnificent spirit of decision, their experience and their dash, there emerged that great victory of November 11, recaptured the ground conquered by enemy, carried the formidable organization of the Hindenburg line, and kept up its decisive march, which became more and more rapid, until it crossed the Meuse, the Rhine, and how much further I do not know, if the armistice had not stopped it."

"Let me pay a tribute to these chiefs and to their indefatigable troops—whether British, Canadian, Australian or from New Zealand—whose dash after four years of war carried them further than anyone had hoped. These were the robust elites of victory."

"Above all, let us salute the glorious dead who sleep in the earth of France. Faithfully, proudly, jealously, I shall guard them and keep their memory alive, because to us they are a testimony and a pledge. They fell in a foreign land, a distant one for many of them, and they affirmed that the peoples beyond the seas came to fight side by side with men of the continent and to join in the defense of liberty and civilization. If our sons in the generations to come should ever forget this, the dead will rise to recall to them this common duty."

"Thus the union of our great peoples, which has become a necessity and which was in the past a historic reality, is sealed by the blood of our heroes and decides for us the obligations of tomorrow. It is in this memory of our formidable common effort, in this hope that our collaboration may always remain as close as hitherto, I accept with deep gratitude the freedom of your city and the sword of honor, the pledge of your friendship which I can set no price."

NO A1 NATION WITH C3 MEN

"You cannot maintain an A1 nation with a C3 population."

"The most important workshop in the land is the home."

"Care for the health of the people is the secret of national efficiency."

"If the health of the country had been looked after properly, Britain would have had another million more fighting men at the front."

Lloyd George's Manchester speech.

David Lloyd George, premier of Great Britain, in a recent speech at Manchester, which ranks among the notable addresses of the war period, sounded a solemn warning to his country, which contains a message to the other nations of the world which are waging the conflict for democracy.

"You cannot maintain an A1 nation with a C3 population," the premier declared in emphasizing the fact that England's neglect of the welfare of the people is responsible for the physical deficiency of a great number of its men of fighting age. With the end of the war, he pointed out, the conditions which created this condition must be corrected through a general economic reform which will ensure to every man and woman a comfortable home, good wages and broader opportunities, and so to every citizen health and the right physical and mental development.

Mr. Lloyd George's speech in part follows:

"As soon as the unseen hand cast the rainbow of peace on the skies we must be ready. And to be ready is summarized in one counsel. We must profit by the lessons of the war."

"The first lesson it has taught us is the immense importance of maintaining the solidarity of the British Empire. The British Empire has rendered a service to humanity the magnitude of which will appear greater and greater as this generation recedes into the past. It helped to stop the onrush of barbarism that was sweeping over Europe. It has held the unfenced highways of the world free for the armies of freedom to mass and repulse. To permit such an organization to fall to pieces after the war would be a crime against civilization."

"The most great lesson of the war is that if the state, if Britain, is to be thoroughly equipped to face any emergency of either peace or war, the state must take more conscious and more intelligent interest in the health and fitness of the people. If the empire is to be equal to this task, the state must take more conscious and more intelligent interest in the health and fitness of the people. If the empire is to be equal to this task, the state must take more conscious and more intelligent interest in the health and fitness of the people."

"We have had a military of nations set up in this country, and since then we have had the most carefully compiled statistics as to the health of the people, certainly between the ages of 18 and 42. At the age of fitness and the age of strength. What has it revealed?"

"You have the three grades—your A1, your B2, and your C3. And you can tell you is this, that the result of these examinations are sufficiently startling—I do not mince in using the word appalling. I hardly dare to say you what it is in some parts of Lancashire. The number of B2 and C3 men throughout the kingdom is prodigious, so much so that we have had to suspect the doctors. But there was a re-examination, which did not make very much difference, and I apologize to the doctors—for the first time."

"What does it mean? When you look at it, it means this—that we have used our human material in this country prodigally, foolishly, cruelly. I asked the minister of national service how many men we could have put into the fighting ranks if the health of the country had been better. He said at least one million. If we had only had that number of men, our earlier have ended triumphantly for all."

"But here we are, coming out essential industries—there are questions whether you should put miners back or keep them in the army (a few tens of thousands); whether you should put a few thousands more into munitions. And yet you have had a million men who, if the state had taken proper care of the fitness of the people, would have been available for the war. And the vigor and strength of the workers of this country have been unsatisfactory even in pursuits where all conditions are favorable to the development of fine physique, or in the case of agriculture, where the conditions have been almost as disappointing as in almost any other industry—a thoroughly healthy occupation of that kind."

"Everywhere a virile race has been wasted by neglect and want of thought for it. It is a danger to the state and to the empire."

"I solemnly warn my fellow countrymen you cannot maintain an A1 empire with a C3 population."

"And unless this lesson is learned the war will have been in vain. Our schooling has cost us dear, but if we make the best use of it I believe it will be worth it all in the end, even in the saving of human life."

"Care for the health of the people is the secret of national efficiency. It is the secret of national recovery. With our machinery we take the greatest care. It is material. The way we look after it if the steel is defective through badly vented or ill-constructed furnaces or inefficient fuel! If the machine is inadequately looked after or overworked, repairs are not done in time and done thoroughly—well, your machinery is no use."

"And man is the most delicately constructed of all machines. It is had business not to look after the men, the women, and—if I may say so—above all, the children.

"Now the most important workshop in this land is the home. And the quality of the steel in the national fabric depends upon the home. If it is unhealthy, ill-equipped, ill-supplied or ill-managed, the quality becomes defective and it cannot bear the strain."

"What are the influences that make for the health of the people? The first is, the houses in which the people live. You cannot bring up a healthy people in the slums. Why, even those who rear animals will tell you that. The problem of housing in this country is the most urgent that awaits our attention. We have talked about it, we have played with it for forty, fifty years, but it has never been really taken in hand. It is not only taken in hand in the home, but in the untidy or slovenly housewife takes up the cleaning of her house—that part where the visitors can

"There has been too much of that in our cities. The slums, the bad houses—they are out of sight. That is the way to deal with a problem which affects the strength of the nation. No government, no party has had to grapple with it in the way a good business man would grapple with some sort of rottenness which he discovered in his business, and which was wasting his assets. He would not stop with it; he would stop the onrush of barbarism that was sweeping over Europe. It has held the unfenced highways of the world free for the armies of freedom to mass and repulse. To permit such an organization to fall to pieces after the war would be a crime against civilization."

"The most great lesson of the war is that if the state, if Britain, is to be thoroughly equipped to face any emergency of either peace or war, the state must take more conscious and more intelligent interest in the health and fitness of the people. If the empire is to be equal to this task, the state must take more conscious and more intelligent interest in the health and fitness of the people. If the empire is to be equal to this task, the state must take more conscious and more intelligent interest in the health and fitness of the people."

"We have had a military of nations set up in this country, and since then we have had the most carefully compiled statistics as to the health of the people, certainly between the ages of 18 and 42. At the age of fitness and the age of strength. What has it revealed?"

"You have the three grades—your A1, your B2, and your C3. And you can tell you is this, that the result of these examinations are sufficiently startling—I do not mince in using the word appalling. I hardly dare to say you what it is in some parts of Lancashire. The number of B2 and C3 men throughout the kingdom is prodigious, so much so that we have had to suspect the doctors. But there was a re-examination, which did not make very much difference, and I apologize to the doctors—for the first time."

"What does it mean? When you look at it, it means this—that we have used our human material in this country prodigally, foolishly, cruelly. RE ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The citizens of Red Deer will have noticed in the recent issues of the local papers that the Athletic Association had decided to disband. Very serious consideration was given by the Executive before this decision was arrived at, but after considering every phase it was thought that in the best interest of sport for next and future years, that a frank confession to our citizens that we were unable to get the success we had hoped for, and return them their unexpended funds, would be the best solution of our unsuccessful attempt to handle all sport through one central organization. We came to the conclusion that in a town of our size, individual branches of sport are better organized through their own individual efforts and organization where more enthusiasm and personal interest seem to be displayed.

When the weather is fair and settled you never see its light. But now and again it illuminates the darkness, and you then know that the storm is coming. I have been scanning the horizon, and I can see flashes on the sky which indicate to me that there are grave atmospheric disturbances in the social and economic world. In the natural world you cannot with thinking avert the storm. In the more artificial world of human society you can, if you take heed in time, avert the hurricane. I give one advice to my countrymen, and I say it solemnly: to stand by the front and finding them. And if you do we shall enjoy settled weather for the great harvest which is coming when the fierce heat of summer which is beating upon us in this great war will be over and past."

COAL AND OTHER SOURCES OF POWER

Lord Moulton has been interviewed by the London Observer on the question of power for mechanical purposes. "We have no real alternative to coal as a source of power," he says. This is, and so far as one can see, must remain a great source and foundation on which civilization is based. There must be economy and a proper use of coal so as to obtain the maximum of power.

"I suppose that means gas?" I asked, and Lord Moulton assented. "Yes," he said, "it means gas. We must use gas to heat our boilers, and we must use the coke in our blast furnaces. We must also extract all the oil possible, all the benzol and paraffin from the coal, and use them very carefully where we must in the services for which oil is essential. Consider, for instance, the advantages of having a very burning oil fuel. In any navy one-third of the ships must always be coal-burners. WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 10th.

GIVE THE BOYS A CHANCE.

The Dominion government is not acting wisely, in our opinion, in declining to confer with the committee of the Great War Veterans Association on the question of gratuities to the returned men. Veterans in all parts of Canada are up in arms against this unlooked for rebuff. The veterans at least are entitled to a fair hearing, and we hope the government will reconsider the matter and give the committee a full and impartial opportunity to state their case. This is only justice to a large portion of the best men we have in the Dominion of Canada. Give the boys a chance.

GIVE THE BOYS THE BONUS.

The News favors the $2,000 bonus to returned soldiers because we believe it will not cost the country as much in the long run as it will cost to carry out the numerous schemes to give employment and big salaries to the higher ups.

Every man who went to France should be given the same bonus irrespective of rank or position. All other gratuities should be cut out. It is stated another six months' gratuity to the veterans is thought of. Privates to get $70 per month. Lieutenants $100 a month, and so on up. This will make up a pretty large portion of the bonus to the veterans. Cut it out and give the men what they ask for. They have earned it. They are worthy of it, and all other expenditure is cut out, all the numerous schemes to give the big fellows the big end of the stick is cut out, we believe the country will be the gainer in the end.

ROW IN THE CAMP.

"The Toronto Globe is one of the high priests of religious hypocrisy, as well as of political treachery, in that city. The paper has lived for many years on the reputation built up for it by its founder, Hon. Geo. Brown. It has been able to turn time to time to betray those who trusted it, because they trusted it. And still it keeps up its pretensions and its 'holier than thou' attitude."

The above is a paragraph taken from the Edmonton Bulletin, the great exponent of Liberalism in Alberta, in speaking of the great exponent of Liberalism in Ontario.

Evidently there is a slight difference of opinion between these two papers which will about equal the difference between Liberalism as it exists in Ontario and as it exists in Alberta.

PUTTING IT UP TO GEORGE.

The Bashaw Star prints the following in its account of the proceedings of a meeting of the Bashaw Branch G.W.V.A.:

"The secretary was instructed to send the following letter to George P. Smith, M.P.P.: 'Sir—The Bashaw Branch of the Great War Veterans Association of Canada requests that you inform them whether H. P. Sperry, of Meeking Creek was appointed Inspector of Roads and Telephone for his services in France or for his services to the Liberal Party. If the latter, kindly see that this condition of affairs is remedied immediately by appointing a returned soldier to occupy this position.'

FIRM HANDLING OF PROFITEERS IS DEBATE FEATURE

MEMBER FOR ST. JOHNS DECLARES HIGHEST COST OF LIVING OF PRIME IMPORTANCE

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—Demands for firm handling of the profiteers was again the feature of the house debate on the address. Joseph Demers, K.C., of St. Johns, thought the problem of the cost of living was of more importance to Canadians than ratification of the peace treaty by the Dominion parliament. It was high time for the government to take speedy action to avoid further crime and possible revolution. As to the ratification of the treaty, that according to Mr. Demers, would result only in Canada binding herself to financial and military participation in any war caused by the dictation of one of the signatories. From opposition members came criticisms of the government in regard to the cost of living with the further plea for amnesty in favor of defaulters under the Military Service Act. To the latter plea Dr. Edwards, Frontenac, replied that it was useless to go after defaulters with feather dusters and ice cream cones. They had failed to do their duty and they should be punished. The cost of living, too, was not a new problem, but it aroused attention today because it affected those not affected before.

On the whole the debate was spirited and almost without incident. There was every expectation it would end before the house rose, but the acting leader of the opposition indicated that there were others yet to speak, and it was adjourned. As debate on the peace treaty has right of way between Monday and Thursday, it is unlikely that debate on the address will be resumed before next Friday.

FIGHT AGAINST ONE BIG UNION

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Extensive organization plans were mapped out by the Canadian Federation of Labor at the closing session of the annual convention yesterday. It is the intention of the federation to spread propaganda for the cause of purely national labor organizations throughout the Dominion. Tentative plans were formulated in this regard, which will provide for a special organizer who will make a tour of the western provinces and compete against the encroachments of the One Big Union in the labor field. The views expressed at the convention today were that the One Big Union failed in that it eliminated the very necessary factor of trade autonomy, as the One Big Union brings all trades under one domination. This is held by the Canadian Federation of Labor to be prejudicial to the interests of varied groups, as each individual organization is believed to be best equipped to direct its own particular affairs.

ON THE EDITOR AGAIN

An exchange reports a joke on an editor who went out evening to attend a party in a home recently blessed with a new baby. He met the hostess at the door and after the usual inquiries he asked after the baby's health. The lady, who was quite dead and suffering with the grippe, thought he was asking after her health, although she usually had one every winter, this was the worst one she ever had; it kept her awake nights a good deal and she had to be taken to her bed. Then noticing that the newspaper man was getting nervous she said she could tell by his looks that he was going to just let her hear and asked him to go in and sit down.

PROVINCIAL MARKETS

Calgary Examiner, Sept. 5th.

Cattle.
Weakness continues in the cattle markets, and at Calgary the beef steers are down at least half a dollar, and the fat cows are 50c to 75c lower. Receipts have been fairly heavy during the latter part of the week, and the market is being moved at the lower levels. The steers are worth from $10 up when they are good, and the advance above the beef price is from 25c to 50c, according to quality, and occasionally a very good steer at $11. Thursday's market on cows showed a big drop, and the tops are down to $8.50. Calves have been fluctuating, and while some were sold at $10, they were down again on Thursday to $9. Stockers and feeders have been reduced, the heavy feeders quoted around $8.75, and stocker steers from $6 to $7. Stocker heifers are a little stronger than last week, with the tops now at $12.50. Bulls, stags and oxen are quoted lower.

Prices at Edmonton show very little reduction except on the cows, which are down half a dollar, with the tops at $8.50. The U.S. buyers are shipping out a great many of the feeders at prices from $8.00 to $9.00. Farmers are busy harvesting and this makes the country business comparatively slow except for the number of associations which are buying breeding stock under governmental assistance. The good quality of the movement of cattle to the extreme north last fall is now being shown in several shipments being returned as best to be sold at Edmonton. August was the record month in the history of Edmonton yards.

Hogs.
There were scarcely enough hogs offered at Calgary this week to make a market. There were a few sold on Thursday at $18.50, and the receipts this morning were also very light and quoted at $18.50.

Edmonton also shows light receipts of hogs, and the prices have been holding between $18.00 and $18.50.

Horses.
In volume the horse movement shows no decrease and the prices on the lighter classes of horses of all kinds are still low. Good teams which are occasionally sold bring good prices, but buyers for the really good ones are scarce. Shipments continue to Manitoba and Northern Alberta.

Grain.
Alberta is getting on the last lap of harvesting and though there has been some frost it will not likely cause serious damage as the most of the fields are fairly well matured. Prices on oats and barley are showing a little weakness, which is taken from conditions in the American markets and the fact that Argentine oats is underselling this continent on the same market. It is reported that 30,000,000 bushels of our wheat has been sold to Great Britain at last year's price.

Poultry.
Milk prices advanced this week to $3.50 per hundred. Special cream is quoted at 65c. Other prices unchanged. Dairy and creamery butter in good demand and prices unchanged. Fancy dairy and special creamery is specially wanted. Eggs have been given a big boost this week and prices are from $15.50 to $16.50. The market on poultry is being gradually reduced and fowl is from 14c to 17c and chickens from 20c to 26c. Alberta new potatoes are gradually dropping.

Hides.
Market is still falling and green salted butcher hides are quoted from 22c to 25c. Calveskins also reduced, and from 45c to 60c.

Hay.
Buyers and sellers are each apparently too busy with harvesting operations to get together on the hay and prices are uncertain. The big dealers are not taking on any contracts and small sales are being made at prices around $28 at point of shipment. There is a little of last year's crop still moving.

GIDNEY-PORTER.
GRAHAM-PORTER.

St. Peter's Anglican church, Regina, was the scene of a pretty double wedding on Wednesday morning, when the brides were the younger daughters of the late Lewis Porter and Mrs. Porter, Beta Apartments, Miss Marie Porter became the bride of Rev. Fred Gidney, Sankist, Sask., and Miss Mary Porter, the bride of Rev. R. Graham, of Stoughton, Sask. The brides were given away by their brother, L. Sheldon Porter, of Leamington, who were dressed in white silk crepe de chene, with which were worn veils and orange blossoms, and they carried shower bouquets of white roses and sweet peas. They were attended by Miss Marie Porter, who wore white veil and a pink picture hat, and carried pink and white sweet peas. The grooms were attended by Captain Walter Cripps, of the 28th battalion, an old friend of the bride's family. The service was fully choral, Miss Porter, the eldest sister of the bride, presiding at the organ. Rev. Frederick Stanford performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. R. C. Gaudin, of Condo. A few intimate friends enjoyed luncheon with the bridal couples, who later left for a short motor trip, preparatory to taking up their residence in their respective parishes in the Appleton diocese.

Rev. R. Graham's many friends in Red Deer will extend to him and his bride the best wishes for a long and happy wedded life. F. Billingshurst, who now resides in Regina, and Mr. Maynard, who is manager of the Bank of Commerce near the city, were honored guests at the wedding.

COULDN'T TAKE OFF HER RINGS

HANDS WERE SWOLLEN FROM RHEUMATISM—TANALIC RELIEVED
HER TROUBLE

"I had almost lost the use of my limbs from rheumatism, and my hands were so swollen I couldn't take off my rings, but since I took Tanalic I have nearly forgotten I ever had rheumatism at all," said Mrs. Mary O'Neill, who resides at 18 Starr Street, Halifax, Canada.

"I could take all day and not even get started telling how I suffered with rheumatism and indigestion for the past four years," she continued. "I would want to eat and would try to, but it didn't do me any good, for food would form in my stomach and press up against my heart, and put me in misery for hours at a time. Many a time I have had to stop work about the house on account of dizziness and shortness of breath."

"I would just have to lie down and get quiet until my breathing would get easier. Then hearthburn and a blinding headache would set in, and when I would get up I would start across the room. I would have to catch myself to keep from falling on the floor. I was weak and felt too worn out and tired all the time to be anything like my natural self and all the medicine I took didn't make me feel any better. Then rheumatism set in, and the pains would seem to start in my shoulders and joints and go through my whole body. My joints would swell so that I could hardly move the stiffness and pain. At night I would lay awake in misery and often wouldn't get any rest at all. Most of the pain would be in my left side, and I couldn't have slept on my left side nor wouldn't have tried for a thousand dollars."

"I took the advice of a young man who is boarding at my house and tried Tanalic, and I am mighty glad I did. Tanalic is a wonderful medicine, for it has not only relieved my stomach trouble entirely, but the rheumatism is also things. I can get around the house and go just anywhere I want to, like I had never had rheumatism at all. My appetite has come back, and I can sleep all night long and wake in the morning feeling fine. My fingers have gone down to their natural size, and neither my hands nor feet could tell I ever had rheumatism. I'll certainly tell anybody that I see what Tanalic has done for me, and will be glad to recommend it to anyone who is possible, for I am thankful for the relief it has brought me."

Tanalic is sold in Red Deer by Gantz-Cornett Drug & Book Co., Ltd., Stettler by the Eckville Pharmacy, Ltd., in Eckville by Eckville Drug Co., in Veteran by Veteran Drug Store, in Delburne by E. J. Hoggan, and in Hespere by Macdonnell Bros.

CANADIAN EGG LAYING CONTESTS POPULAR.

The egg laying contests throughout the Dominion are attracting considerable interest. Already the entries are being rapidly filled by birds from all classes of poultry breeders. The fancier and the commercial man are being represented, as are also the backyarder and the farmer, the old breeder and the amateur. Canadians are not going to have it all their own way, either, for both the United States and England are going to be represented.

The Dominion Experimental Farm is conducting no less than seven contests this year, reaching from Prince Edward Island on the east to Alberta on the west. At Ottawa will be held the "Canadian," open to the world. Other contests will be conducted at six of the Branch Farms throughout the Dominion. The farms selected are Charlottetown, P.E.I., Napan, N.S., Cape Rouge, Que., Brandon, Man., Indian Head, Sask., and Lethbridge, Alta.

All contests start November first, and continue for 52 weeks. Application must be made to Dominion Poultry Husbandman, Experimental Farm, Ottawa. The time for receiving applications has been extended to Oct. 15th.

LIVES OF EIGHT MEN ARE SACRIFICED

Port Colborne, Sept. 6.—At the inquest here last night into the deaths of the victims of the elevator explosion, startling evidence was given by T. S. Harvey, mechanical superintendent of the elevator. He said while dust fans were in operation at the time, the leads to the various cages were closed, the only lead open was to the scales. He never had the leads open in taking in grain except by special slides. He said that the lead had been open fifty per cent of the dust from the grain would have been taken away, thus very materially lessening the danger of an explosion. "The grain was receiving that way from Chicago, and was pretty dusty," said Harvey. "American grain is usually much more dusty than our common Canadian wheat." He added that the orders against fanning dust from grain emanated from the desire on the part of the shippers to avoid loss of weight.

"So by not having the leads to the fans open, the lives of these eight men were probably sacrificed," observed Crown Attorney Cusker of Welland. Harvey admitted that the danger of an explosion was increased. "And to avoid loss in weight of grain somebody takes a high chance?" "Yes."

Harvey's theory of the cause of the explosion was dust swirling in

NEWS WEEKLY SERMON

By REV. GEO. D. ARMSTRONG

"Do all things without murmuring and disputing, that ye may be blameless and pure, the sons of God without blemish, in the midst of a wicked and perverse nation, among whom ye shine as lights in the world; holding forth the word of life,—Phil. II, 14-15. The ideal which Paul had in mind for us at this time, when in a very special way the thoughts of men are being turned toward the Church for leadership."

In the mind of the apostle, a spirit of harmony and good fellowship was a necessity if the mission of the church was to be successful.

It is a cause for rejoicing today that even among those churches in which striking differences exist there is a real desire to preserve the unity of the spirit and to co-operate in the work of re-establishing the rule of God in the world.

In an age when the great issues are at stake and very complex problems have arisen, it is essential that the facts of life be faced in a magnanimous way and that the minds of the followers of Jesus should not be clouded with petty jealousies, unseemly bickering and partisan strife.

This is not a plea for peace at any price, nor a desire for compromise, but an insistence that we should contend with all our energy for the things which will make the religion of Jesus Christ a dominating factor in human affairs. Lethargy and stagnation is not to be mistaken for harmony. Sane, earnest criticism is essential if we are to avoid mistakes which have crippled and hampered the work of the Church.

It would be folly indeed to pursue an ostrich-like policy of refusing to look at existing dangers but it is equally vain to magnify evils which are hindering the cause of progress. We ought to be willing and not afraid to see things as they are.

For the condition of things which obtains today the Church itself is largely responsible, and those who have been most interested in the Church have been foremost in calling attention to her inefficiency. The health of the Church is being affected by the constant tendency to ask that things be done in a different way.

Very much as one's personal health may be affected by a morbid state of mind.

One thing we need the Church—a recent article by a professor of thermodynamics in the University of Amsterdam (as quoted by the Toronto Globe) states the importance and value of the Church in the following question: "What would be the effect of spiritual life in our country if everywhere the Church steeples should be removed from these fields and all the parsonages should be turned into plain villas? Would it mean a gain or a loss? Who would take the place of the Church as the guardian of piety and tradition? Who would keep the world of religion light burning, and who would hand it down from generation to generation?"

In a striking article, which appeared in the "Country Gentleman" of September 6th, "Getting an Education in Religion," the inadequacy of the purely secular education is set forth with convincing power.

"What is there in secular education for the sustenance of old age? It is a matter of common observation that just as youth is satisfied with the existence, so middle-age finds full employment and measurable satisfaction in its professional activities. But unless something more than this is woven into the consciousness there is little basis for satisfaction as old age creeps on, when physical existence becomes a burden, and when the customary occupation can no longer be successfully pursued. It is then that the thoughts turn outward and upward toward the ultimate meaning of things. It is then that the consolations of religion are needed. However helpful and necessary is a correct philosophy of life during the active years, it is positively the only condition of comfortable existence as the end is drawing near, when the mind reviews the past, disregards the present and rests only in the Great Beyond."

Finally, what assurance have we from the results of purely secular training as to whether this mass of highly trained young specialists is going out into the world to serve it or to exploit it? We desire as we work and save and pay taxes to be assured that the next generation may have advantages over ours. Upon this point who but Christ has spoken helpfully?

By every count, at the very least, and without the slightest reference to religious enthusiasms or cant, the young cannot afford to remain ignorant of the things which they should go out into life informed as to what Christianity really means as it lies in the minds and hearts of the greatest thinkers of today.

It may be argued that religion and Christianity are not to be identified with the Church, and in a measure this is true, but it must not be forgotten that the Church is an essential part of Christianity. It came into existence to express the fellowship that exists between those who are united in their allegiance to Christ. It expresses in a social way the personal faith of men and women in Christ—often this faith has been inadequately expressed, but it has not been forgotten that constant reformations from within the Church itself give evidence to the vigor, health and vigorous nature of the life of the Church.

The life of God is throbbing in the soul of its members, and as sons of God they are the salt of the earth and the light of the world. The evil conditions which obtain in the world today manifest in the human and selfishness with which human interests are regarded is a challenge to men to strengthen the life of the Church. If humanity is to be saved, it must be by a race of people blameless and pure, without blemish, whose personal influence shall permeate the whole life of mankind. He is a pessimist indeed who despairs of human justice, honesty and love, and he is a traitor to the race who is not doing his utmost to make these things supreme in his personal life and in his relationship with others.

The thought of God concerning man has been set forth clearly and convincingly in the personal teaching and life of Jesus Christ. He is indeed the word of God to man—to all men.

We cannot avoid responsibility by refusing to identify ourselves with the Church. Shall we remain of the inert mass unresponsive and unenlightened, or shall we recognize the claims of God and the great privileges of mankind.

Arise and shine, holding forth the word of life, "living in the spirit of the Master."

"Who follows in His train?"

LOANS TO NORMAL SCHOOL STUDENTS

More students are wanted for the Normal classes. Students will be admitted to Normal schools up to September 15.

Normal schools opened Tuesday, and while there has been a gratifying response to the government's offer to lend money sufficient to pay all the costs of Normal school training for any who are not able to finance themselves, there is still room at both Calgary and Camrose for more students to enter. In the last few days more than sixty students who had not thought of taking the course have secured their government loan and are on the work. The enrollment now stands at two hundred and forty.

The Minister of Education is anxious that the opportunity of securing a loan shall not be withheld from any young man or young woman in the Province of Alberta who has the necessary High School training to gain admission to the teaching profession. Realizing that it takes some little time to inform the people of the entire province of a new departure of this kind, the Minister has decided that applications for loans will be considered and students admitted to the Normal schools up to Monday morning, September 15. This should give everyone ample opportunity to make a decision. The amount of money which may be loaned to any student will not exceed $400. Many students are undertaking to finance the course at much less, the applications running as low as $200 in some cases. The money will be repayable to the government over a period of two years dating from the close of the Normal school year term. It should not be forgotten that teachers' salaries have materially increased in the last year or two. There is a very rapidly increasing number of attractive positions offering in the teaching profession. Young people can have no more valuable asset than a certificate as a teacher, which may open up innumerable avenues for them. The future of the teaching profession is very bright, and students who are not able to secure the most important type of vocational training should not be disappointed for the most part in either of the Normal schools in this province by September 15.

METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING AT INNISFAIR

The financial district meeting of the Red Deer District of the Methodist Church was held at Innisfair on Wednesday, September 3. The attendance was the largest on record at this annual gathering, and a keen interest was taken in all the proceedings.

Rev. W. E. Galloway, Field Secretary of Religious Education, was present and gave a comprehensive review of the work and plans being carried out by the Department of Religious Education.

The following officers were elected to supervise various phases of this work for the District:

District Secretary of Religious Education—Rev. George E. Graham, Delburne.

Supt. of General Sunday School Efficiency—W. T. Coote, Red Deer.

Supt. of Elementary Grades—Mrs. C. Reed, Crossfield.

Supt. of Intermediate and Senior Boys' Work—J. W. Bradley, Carleton Place.

Supt. of Intermediate and Senior Girls' Work—Mrs. A. A. Lytle, Innisfair.

Supt. of Young Peoples Department—C. R. Oxtoby, Innisfair.

Supt. of Adult Work—C. G. Craig, Oshawa.

Supt. of Missionary Work—Rev. J. F. Woodworth, Red Deer.

It is proposed to hold a series of one-day conventions on each field of the District, and a general convention for the District in November at Red Deer.

At the evening session, addresses were given by Rev. H. F. Woodworth, of Klobe, Japan, upon missionary work in that country. Since the work it is proposed to do in connection with the Church Forward Movement to be inaugurated on Rally Day, September 28. The Anglican, Baptist, Congregational, Methodist and Presbyterian churches are making a co-operative effort to increase their efficiency by the securing of pledged intercessors and stewards and recruits for life service in the various lines of work at home and abroad. There will also be a financial campaign in the interest of missions and education in February next. Practical and inspiring addresses were given by Rev. Thos. Powell, of Calgary, and Rev. A. Lloyd Smith, of Toronto, who has recently been appointed assistant secretary of Home Missions for the Methodist church in Canada.

Rev. Robert Pearson, M.P.P., is the organizer for the province, and the following sub-committee was appointed for the Red Deer District:

Rev. Committee on Spiritual Affairs—Rev. G. M. Weber, Mr. Joseph Smith.

Financial Objectives—Rev. A. A. Lytle, Mr. G. W. Smith.

Publicity—Rev. G. D. Armstrong, Mr. F. W. Galbraith.

Special Campaign Committee—Hon. Senator Michener, Red Deer; Mr. R. N. Aylward, Oshawa; Mr. D. A. Jeffrey, Crossfield.

Chairman of Committee—Rev. A. A. Lytle, Innisfair.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Innisfair entertained the delegates at a supper, and their hospitality was keenly appreciated.

If the enthusiasm manifested at this organization meeting is maintained, the work of the church during the coming season should be greatly stimulated and strengthened.

SUGAR PROFITS FINALLY REGULATED

REFINERS ALLOWED MARGIN OF FORTY CENTS PER HUNDRED POUNDS AND RETAILERS ONE
CENT PER POUND PLUS FREIGHT CHARGES.

Montreal, Sept. 3.—The board of commerce this afternoon made and issued its order concerning the sugar inquiry. The order, in addition to providing shipments by the refiners in combination of two thousand tons of sugar for the western fruit growers, dealt with the recently promulgated embargo upon the export of sugar. It further provided for fair prices for sugar, which prices are made applicable to the refiners, wholesalers and retailers. The embargo has been modified so as to permit the export of sugar, which was the subject of a bona fide binding contract for sale to persons abroad, heretofore made, provided that no such shipments shall be made which will prevent any refiner from manufacturing and supplying for domestic consumption the amount of raw sugar previously allocated to it for that purpose.

The board further orders that hereafter and until the board shall, if necessary, as the result of changed conditions, otherwise order any price on sales for consumption in Canada, shall be deemed an unfair price which exceeds a price arrived at on the following basis:

"All sales by refiners may bear a net profit not greater than two-fifths of one cent per pound, it being estimated that such profit will ensue from sales at not over 11 cents per pound, which sale price will include a commission of not more than five per cent, payable by the refiners to wholesalers or other distributors, for the purpose of distribution to the retailer or other trade."

"Wholesalers: All sales by wholesalers may produce not more than a five per cent. commission mentioned in the preceding paragraph, which will be paid to the wholesalers by the refiners and will be included in the refiners' price list. The refiners' list prices will be that at which the wholesaler will sell to the retailer."

"Retailers: All sales by wholesalers may produce not more than a five per cent. commission mentioned in the preceding paragraph, which will be paid to the wholesalers by the refiners and will be included in the refiners' price list. The refiners' list prices will be that at which the wholesaler will sell to the retailer."

PENHOLD WOMEN'S INSTITUTE MEETING

The Women's Institute meeting of August 28th was most interesting and successful. The subjects under discussion were: "The Canning of Fruits and Vegetables, Pickling and Jelly Making." This being a very busy time of year, and many away attending the Stampede at Calgary, the attendance was not up to normal, and as the following paper, "Method for Canning Vegetables," given by Mrs. A. R. Brown, was particularly interesting, we are giving it in full:

METHOD FOR CANNING VEGETABLES

The most important thing in the beginning is to have jars, lids and rubbers thoroughly sterilized. The best way is to put everything in the boiler, standing the jars bottom side up, and cover with water for half an hour. If the Economy caps are used all that is necessary is to dip the cap into scalding water before placing on jar, and then adjust clamp.

While the sterilizing process is in operation the vegetables may be prepared as for cooking. All vegetables should be crisp when put into jars. As a safeguard it is wise to soak in cold water. For cauliflower add a little salt to the water. When jars are filled sprinkle a teaspoonful of salt to the quart over the top. Fill with cold water and adjust cap, but do not screw down tight. A wash bottle may be used in which to cook the vegetables, or anything which is large enough to contain the desired number of jars and retain the steam.

Place a thin board or rack made to fit the bottom of the boiler in first to keep jars from breaking when boiling, then put in jars of vegetables and fill boiler with cold water until it comes up about half way on the jars. It is necessary to cook some vegetables longer than others, but count the time of cooking from the moment they commence to boil. Keep at a steady boil, but not too hard, or the water will boil out of the jars a trifle, leaving the contents at the top of the jar out of water when done. This is especially important when fruit is being canned. When vegetables have finished boiling the required time, the lid should be screwed down air tight. If Economy caps are used, press down tightly. If taken from the boiler when done avoid having cold air strike jars.

A table for length of time to boil various vegetables is as follows: Beans and cauliflower, 3 hours; carrots, peas and corn, less than 3 hours, and six may be better; spinach, chard or beet tops for greens, 1 hour.

Expert authorities advise cooking greens for three hours, but if cooked too long they are soft and not so palatable when eaten, though they keep alright if cooked longer. Per personal experience I incline me to believe this too long. To prepare the greens, wash as for table use, put in to a cloth bag and plunge into boiling water. Lift out and instantly plunge into cold water. If many are to be prepared, a tub may be convenient for the blanching process. Empty out of bag into a pan and cut up with knife and fork and put into jar with fork without handling with the hands.

To prepare corn for the jars, cut from the cob and salt in the usual way. This vegetable will require less water on account of there being more in the kernel.

Beets may be preserved for winter use by first boiling until tender, slip off outer skin by putting into cold water. Slice into jar and sprinkle on top a teaspoonful of salt and fill jar with vinegar which has been heated to the boiling point. Seal immediately.

I was told recently by a lady who had tried it that lettuce may be canned with splendid success, and be as crisp and fresh as when gathered. Her instructions were as follows: Thoroughly sterilized cans, add lettuce crisped in cold water, ice water would be best. Put into jar and pour over it cold water until all air bubbles have run out over the top. Do not salt. Seal air tight and put away in as cool a place as possible.

Many people do not use a sealed jar of melted paraffin which is an added precaution to keep out air and save contents, especially with vegetables such as peas which seem to be harder to keep than some others.

If one is unable to can like many vegetables as they would like, beets, carrots, parsnips and celery may be kept firm until spring if covered over in bins in the cellar with sand or dirt, though sand is better.

The next regular monthly meeting of the Women's Institute will be held on September 25th in the Co-operative Hall.

A goodly attendance is required, as this will be the last, also a preparatory meeting, before the September 27th Fair.

The various committees in charge are doing their utmost to make this Fair a success. All not proceeds go towards the new hall.

PLENTY OF SUGAR FOR EVERYBODY, SAYS M'GIBBON

HEAD OF REFINERY SEES NO REASON FOR ANY BIG ADVANCE

Montreal, Sept. 2.—"There is plenty of sugar to go round if everybody keeps his head," said D. Lorne McGibbon, of the Atlantic Sugar Refineries, Ltd., at the close of the session of the board of commerce this afternoon at the Windsor hotel. His reply was in answer to a question by Hon. H. A. Robson, chairman of the board, who asked:

"Is there any justification for domestic hoarding of sugar?" "Yes," P. O'Connor, K.C., also asked Mr. McGibbon: "Do you think there is any hoarding among the retailers in the west?"

Mr. McGibbon: "The retailer is not hoarding, but the public is. Sugar may go up a cent or two, but nothing like the advance that is rumored. A cent or two a pound, however, is a great advance to the sugar man. My personal opinion is that before Christmas the wholesale price, which is now $10.50, will be $11.00 or $11.75.

J. W. McConnell, of the St. Lawrence Sugar Refineries, Ltd., here interposed: "What depends to a great extent on whether we are permitted to continue to fill our export orders, as with the larger profit that these represent, we can average up."

Mr. O'Connor (to Mr. McGibbon): "Why should there be such an appreciable increase in the price of sugar in view of the fact that the United States will have a big beet crop in October, and Cuba also expects a big year?"

GOES TO GREAT BRITAIN
Mr. McGibbon: "That will affect the American market principally. One of the main reasons for the advance is that Great Britain has given a preference to the British West Indies for their sugar, which heretofore came to Canada. The price for British West Indies was 6.10. It is now worth eight cents.

The most acute situation which claimed the attention of the board was the shortage of sugar in British Columbia, which was surrounded by which were presented by R. N. Winslow, representing the British Columbia fruit growers and jobbers. Mr. McGibbon stated that unless 2,000 tons of sugar was obtained within the next three weeks, when the largest move of fruit would be made, serious trouble would follow.

He stated that the estimated quantity required was based on an allowance of one pound of sugar to four of fruit. The number of letters and telegrams from various parts of Canada were read by Captain W. White, secretary, which called attention to the shortage of sugar and the necessity for immediate alleviation of the situation.

DOCTORS OPPOSED TO LIQUOR BUSINESS

DEFEAT RESOLUTION LIMITING NUMBER OF PRESCRIPTIONS AND ASK THE GOVERNMENT TO HANDLE LIQUOR ITSELF.

Giving short shrift to a resolution by Dr. Lincoln of Calgary, and Dr. Whitelaw of Edmonton, calling for the limitation of the number of prescriptions for liquor to 50 per month for every medical man in the province, the Medical association on Wednesday at Calgary asked that the dispensing of liquor be taken out of the hands of the doctors and carried on by the attorney general's department, or failing this, "that the act be carried as originally voted on by the people."

The resolution embodying this proposal was moved by Dr. L. S. Mackie and seconded by Dr. J. S. McCachra. It asks specifically that the province of Alberta dispense liquor through the machinery of the attorney-general's department, "for beverage purposes."

As the sale of liquor for beverage purposes is specifically prohibited by the enactment of the legislature, this portion of the resolution would appear to require some explanation and interpretation.

DENOUNCE CERTAIN DOCTORS
Strong denunciation of the members of the medical profession who have taken advantage of the system to carry on a wholesale business in prescriptions for beverage purposes, was expressed by the speakers at the meeting of the association yesterday. That such conduct is discreditable to the profession and that it tends to lower the status of the practice of medicine, was the opinion to which the most forceful kind of expression was given. Most of the speakers, however, mentioned the name of any one of the various well-known practitioners who, because of the handsome profit which the writing of prescriptions provides, give far more attention to "this lucrative trade than to the care of a legitimate practice."

Hon. John R. Boyle, attorney-general, who briefly addressed the convention, while declaring himself unwilling to advise the medical profession as to the general policy which they should adopt, indicated that the Alberta liquor act, "with all its limitations, was a compromise between ideal and is bringing about sobriety and saving money."

HUSBAND DECIDES TO DIE WITH WIFE
Chicago, September 2.—"I'll stay with you, Mary," were the words William P. THOUSANDS ACCLAIM PRINCE OF WALES

MAKING SHORT STAY IN MONTREAL PRIOR TO WESTERN VISIT

Montreal, Sept. 2.—Hundreds of thousands of people acclaimed the Prince of Wales as he passed through the streets of Montreal today on a short tour of the city's sights before he goes on the western tour. The prince arrived in the city from Ottawa at 10:30.

He got his first taste of the welcome prepared for him at the C.P.R. station. A large force of policemen was called upon to keep the people in line. As the train pulled in the bells in the churches began to ring while factory whistles sounded shrilly in the distance, in competition with the raucous notes of the screen of welcome on the river.

The bells of St. George's church, just opposite the depot, played "See the Conquering Hero Comes" and then "God Bless the Prince of Wales."

Among those presented to him was Lord Patrick Matthews, formerly of Dublin, Ireland, 39 years of age. The old soldier presented a picturesque figure in his navy blue uniform of the days of the Crimea. He wore on his tunic the Crimean medal, the Indian medal, the Penian raid medal, and a medal for marksmanship.

The old veteran said to the prince: "I am the only remaining member of the bodyguard of your grandfather when he was here."

The prince took off his hat to the old soldier and shook his hand cordially.

CROWD OF THIRTY MILES
The line of route followed through the city by the prince and his party took in all the best features of Montreal's business, residential and sight-seeing sections. For the prince's visit a rule which excludes automobiles from a very beautiful drive on Mount Royal was waived. The route was crowded with enthusiastic people along almost its thirty miles.

At the Cartier monument, on Fletcher's field, the prince was presented with the special medal struck in commemoration of the centennial of the great Canadian statesman and the celebrations being held here this week. His royal highness took a great interest in the new statue of Cartier, to be unveiled by King George next Saturday.

The statue has had a romantic career. It was in Brussels when the war broke out and was hurried so that it would not fall into the hands of the Germans.

APPRECIATES SCENERY
The prince was greatly charmed with the view obtainable from the lookout on Mount Royal.

A luncheon tendered to his royal highness by the city was served in a grand hall, the prince was seated at a long table, the guests at the main table, a large anchor decorated with flowers, were Mayor Martin (presiding), the prince on his right, with Hon. C. J. Doherty, minister of justice, and his grace Archbishop Bruchest, on the mayor's left. There were about 100 other guests.

ROD AND GUN FOR SEPTEMBER
A splendid series of photos of Canadian Nature life are now running in Rod and Gun in Canada. The series of these shows a male loon and appears in the September issue which is now on sale at the news dealers.

"Our Elusive Friend, the Black Duck," is the title of Bonnycastle Dale's splendid article that appears in this issue. Other valuable stories and articles entitled "The Hunt for Three Women," by M. Parkison, "The Making of a Shooter," by Edward T. Martin, "The Black Bass," by Archie P. McKinnon, the well-known Canadian writer, Dr. William T. Hornaday, Director of the New York Zoological Park, is the author of a thought compelling article on conservation, dealing particularly with the rational utilization of game.

The departments of the magazine dealing with the various outdoor activities of rod and gun are up to their usual high standard. A splendid picture of Joe Jennings of Toronto, winner of second place at the Chicago International Tournament, appears in the Trap Department. Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly at Woodstock, Ont., by W. J. Taylor, Ltd.

CANADA LEADS DEMOCRACIES, DECLARES SIR ROBERT BORDEN

Canada Could Not Accept Status at Peace Conference Inferior to That Accorded to Nations Less Advanced in Their Development, Says Premier of Dominion.

Ottawa, September 2.—Debate on the address opened in the house of commons this afternoon, but quickly gave way to discussion of the treaty of peace. The mover and seconder of the address made their speeches.

D. D. Mackenzie, acting leader of the opposition, followed with a few remarks, then moved the adjournment of the debate. Immediately Sir Robert Borden, by unanimous consent, presented his motion for the ratification of the peace treaty.

Sir Robert described in detail the provisions of the treaty with the accompanying covenant of the league of nations and the labor convention. He spoke of Canada's new status in the family of nations as exemplified in representation at the peace conference and on the council of the league.

STOOD ON SOLID GROUND
"On behalf of my country," Sir Robert declared, "I stood firmly on the solid ground of this, the greatest of all wars, in which the world's liberty, the world's justice, in short, the world's future destiny, were at stake. Canada had led the democracies of both the American continents. Her resolve had given inspiration, her sacrifices had been conspicuous; her effort was unlimited to the end. The same indomitable spirit which made her capable of that effort and sacrifice made her equally incapable of accepting at the peace conference, in the league of nations or elsewhere, a status inferior to that accorded to nations less advanced in the development, less amply endowed in wealth, resources and population, no more complete in their sovereignty, and far less conspicuous in their sacrifice."

COMMENTS THE TREATY
Sir Robert added: "I commend this treaty to the consideration and approval of the Canadian parliament, claiming not indeed that it has no imperfections, but that it does in truth embody terms consistent with honor and justice and that the most earnest endeavor of those who framed it was to ensure the future peace of the world."

There was a short but animated discussion when the prime minister concluded. Hon. W. S. Fielding, who has now taken his seat immediately to the left of Mr. Mackenzie, the latter occupying Sir Wilfrid Laurier's old seat, wanted to know what the effect would be if Canada refused to ratify. Sir Robert sharply replied that it would mean the defeat of the government presenting the treaty for ratification, that Mr. Fielding and his colleagues would be called upon to take their seats on the treasury benches.

Canada, too, would stand out from a treaty assented to by the rest of the Empire.

OPPOSITION EXPECTED
Although the discussion was brief, it was evident that any opposition will centre around the league covenant. Under this measure, the league undertaking "to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of the members of the league."

Both Ernest Lapointe, Kamouraski, and W. F. Maclean, South York, urged the importance of this article. There was the question how far it bound Canada to engage in further wars, and the members urged that the league should be studied, the provisions of the treaty. Eventually the house adjourned until Thursday afternoon.

Whether debate will then proceed on the address or on the peace treaty was not determined. Sir Robert intimated that the government was ready to meet the wishes of the opposition in either course.

CARSON HAS NO HOPE FOR IRISH PEACE
Belfast, Sept. 2.—Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulster Unionists, who has come to Belfast to open a new anti-home rule campaign, addressing the Ulster Unionists in council today, declared that as far as Ireland was concerned, the home rule was the same thing as the Sinn Féin and that to return to pre-war party politics was perfectly logical because there was nothing between union and separation.

Sir Edward challenged the government to make an unequivocal declaration as to whether or not it intended to continue to support the home rule in the Sinn Féin and if not to courageously let the world know that Great Britain would brook no interference with its independence in the United States or the continent or elsewhere.

Self-determination was characterized by Sir Edward as one of the most misleading phrases ever advocated. He asked if the United States would allow the southerners self-determination or if Canada would permit Quebec to have self-determination. Declaring that he saw no prospect of a settlement of the pending issue through the Irish Free State Bill, he predicted the early collapse of the coalition government and a return to pre-war party politics.

Brumpton & Gaetz Limited

Pressure of work prevents us from doing more than announcing this week the receipt of a large quantity of Fall merchandise for our various departments. The receipts include such varied lines as Millinery, Men's and Youths' Clothing, Ladies' and Men's Fine Footwear, Boys' Sturdy School Boots, Women's Cotton House Dresses, Boys' Tweed and Corduroy Knickers, and our first lot of Ladies' Fall Coats. We are highly gratified at receiving a shipment of Ladies' Coats in such good time as we feared the strike of the Garment Workers in Eastern Canada might delay deliveries seriously. We are now able to show some very handsome models.

Self-determination was characterized by Sir Edward as one of the most misleading phrases ever advocated. He asked if the United States would allow the southerners self-determination or if Canada would permit Quebec to have self-determination. Declaring that he saw no prospect of a settlement of the pending issue through the Irish Free State Bill, he predicted the early collapse of the coalition government and a return to pre-war party politics.

Whether debate will then proceed on the address or on the peace treaty was not determined. Sir Robert intimated that the government was ready to meet the wishes of the opposition in either course.

CARSON HAS NO HOPE FOR IRISH PEACE
Belfast, Sept. 2.—Sir Edward Carson, leader of the Ulster Unionists, who has come to Belfast to open a new anti-home rule campaign, addressing the Ulster Unionists in council today, declared that as far as Ireland was concerned, the home rule was the same thing as the Sinn Féin and that to return to pre-war party politics was perfectly logical because there was nothing between union and separation.

Sir Edward challenged the government to make an unequivocal declaration as to whether or not it intended to continue to support the home rule in the Sinn Féin and if not to courageously let the world know that Great Britain would brook no interference with its independence in the United States or the continent or elsewhere.

Self-determination was characterized by Sir Edward as one of the most misleading phrases ever advocated. Mr. and Mrs. George Hepworth have purchased the Model Rooming House and will carry it on in the future as a first class rooming house. Mrs. Hepworth is a model housekeeper, and will, we feel assured, have no difficulty in filling their well equipped house with as many boarders as she can accommodate. The News wishes Mr. and Mrs. Hepworth every success in their venture.

The Presbytery of Red Deer held its semi-annual meeting in the church at Willowdale this week, the opening meeting being Tuesday, September 9. This is the first time the Presbytery has held a regular meeting in Willowdale and was made possible by the kindness of the people of the district who came in with their cars and took the members to the church and to their homes.

The rain storm Thursday, Friday and Saturday was the heaviest of this season, and was hard on farmers in the midst of harvesting. However, the farmers are busy again and harvesting will soon be complete. The industrial school have completed the cutting of their grain, over 300 acres now standing in stacks, awaiting the threshers. The grain is in fine condition and is expected to thresh a good high average.

F. Fisher, one of our old residents, has been experimenting with potatoes and among other experiments he planted some tubers on the 30th day of June, and was surprised yesterday when digging them up to find that they were almost fully developed, and as large as average potatoes, although they were planted fully six weeks after the regular period. There is a lot to learn about potato culture in this country yet.

R. Crummy, B.A., has taken the position as teacher of Balerno S.D. for the winter. He and his brother will probably settle somewhere in the district next spring under the Soldier Settlement Act. Mr. Crummy was in the Princess Pats and was with the Carwell boys and Phil Galtbraith in France, and had his head badly smashed by the name shell which buried Art. Carwell. He is a son of Dr. Crummy, of Winnipeg, and a nephew of Mrs. McKinnay, M.P.P.
